

The Bag-Piper Case

The Bag-piper Case from Lyons Bagpipes and Highland Supplies is a revolution in carting around a cumbersome, large and heavy instrument. Time and time again as a piper who travels a lot I find myself struggling with a case, arguing with airlines, wondering where I could fit things.

No more. I have a bag-piper case and I can fit all sorts of things in it. It has pockets for mobile phones, drink bottles and handy zippered sections. A front zippered compartment that can fit canisters, and books, and cleaning rods, every maintenance item you can think of. I used to have a huge timber case. When I changed over, I started to look for other things to carry around because this case fits so much. Yet it is airline acceptable, easy to carry, lightweight and strong. It is also designed to comfortably fit a canister bagged instrument.

Within weeks of me using one, my entire band changed to them. Not one person remained with their old case. That has to say something. One piper, in a momentary lapse backed over his case with the car. The sides of the case buckled a little, but protected his pipes. After extracting them from the wheel arch of his car, all that was broken was a drone pin. Bloody amazing! He has since had his case dropped and snapped a chanter that was kept on top of the instrument. Had he kept it in the specially designed section for storing chanters in the bottom he would not have had a problem!

I real gem, everyone should have one!
